County Fair Highlights Local Products

RECORD STOCK SHOW THIS YEAR AT COUNTY FAIR

Nevada County's finest livestock in both the dairy and beef divisions is in competition with some of Northern California's finest animals in the Nevada County fair livestock show which opened last night.

One of the outstanding county herds is the 21-animal Guernsey group brought in from the Barnegat Ranch by George Ellsworth. The Barnegat string will be competing against the Valley Oaks Ranch of Galt, the ranch of G. O. Griffith, a Nevada Irrigation District director from Auburn; and C. M. Morelli and Robert Morelli of Petaluma.

The chunky black Aberdeen Angus from the J. H. Gleason Ranch in Lazy Valley will be vying with Angus cattle from the James Codoni Angus Empire Farm at Empire. Gleason is also a NID director. Two of the top Hereford herds are offered by Homer Sanford of Meridian, Yuba County and Sacramento Herefords Farm near Sacramento owned by Francis Normile.

Nevada County Brown Swiss dairy animals exhibited by Oakley Morris of Conifer Crest Ranch will be competing with Brown Swiss from Rosalinda Bean and Son Ranch, also near Marysville.

GRAND JURY ADOPTS RESOLUTION ASKING STATE NID ENQUIRY

Curtis Clark, foreman of Nevada county grand jury, said the grand jury passed a resolution Monday authorizing further investigation of Nevada Irrigation District affairs by the attorney General's office.

He explained the grand jury had previously requested an investigation by the state office but that legal authorization had not been made until Monday.

The jury foreman added representatives of the attorney general's office are expected to begin the investigation within a few days.

The grand jury also entered into a contract with Lyman Straine, Sacramento public accountant, for a general audit of all county funds for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

NEW NOVELTY RIDES AT COUNTY FAIR

Youngsters attending the Nevada county fair will get new thrills and chills with two new rides recently introduced by the West Coast Exposition Shows.

The two new novelty rides are Bulgy and the While in which the kiddies (like Jonah) will ride in the body of a mechanical whale and Ming-O-Racer, a junior race course in which the youngsters actually steer their own cars around the track.

A few of the attractions are ferris wheel, merry-go-round, caterpillar ride, Roll-O-Plane and a circus side show containing a full complement of freaks

SUPERVISORS CHARGED WITH SPENDING SPREE

The Nevada county board of supervisors was accused of using the Grass Valley Veterans Memorial building as a political deal by Curtis Clark, foreman of the grand jury, Monday.

Addressing Frank Rowe, acting chairman, during a discussion of the merits of placing the administration of the building under a manager system, Clark said:

"We know what has been going on. For years you have spent money like a drunken sailor down there. You have used the veterans building as a political deal."

Clark and a delegation of grand jurors appeared at an adjourned session of the board Monday to discuss a grand jury interim report filed July 7 which recommended that the building be returned to a building manager system and an adequate bookkeeping system be set up for the building.

FOREST, FARM WEALTH SHOWN AT COUNTY FAIR

Nevada County's farm and forest wealth went on display last night with the grand opening of the 8th annual Nevada County Fair.

Tabulation of entries in all exhibit departments showed new records being set and if attendance follows the usual course in proportion to entry increase the attendance should also set a new mark according to Fair Manager Loyle Freeman.

Top attraction tonight will be the falling of a 90 foot Ponderosa Pine tree at the fair grounds timber lot. The tree falling is part of a forestry demonstration conducted by the equipment pool of the Soil Conservation Service under the direction of Harry Hyatt, district manager of the SCS and Milton Edwards, forestry research technician. More than 20,000 board feet of logs will be cut into lumber during the fair by the Jackson Timber Harvester, a portable saw mill. The second tree will be toppled Saturday night.

Immediately following the tree falling the night vaudeville show will get under way at 8:30 with a seven act show featured by Kayletta, billed as Queen of the Air who will do a trapeze act at the top of a 110 foot steel tower.

Edith Scott, fair secretary, announced agricultural entries were 243 as compared to 108 last year and horticultural displays were up from 48 to 63.

Beef, dairy and 4-H Club rosters are all heavier than in the 1949 fair.

A lavish entertainment program includes afternoon and night vaudeville shows offering a wide variety of acrobatic, animals, song and dance, comedy and high trapeze and steel tower performances.

UNREGISTERED VOTERS URGED TO QUALIFY

County Clerk Ralph E. Deeble today advised qualified but unregistered persons they will be unable to vote Nov. 7 if they do not sign up in the near future.

Anyone not in the voting roll by the close of business Thursday, Sept. 14 cannot take part in the important November election.

The chief registration point is Deeble's office in the courthouse. It is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily and from 9 a. m. until noon Saturdays. Anyone may vote who is 21, a citizen and has resided in the county 90 days and the state a year.

Those who lost their right to vote by not taking part in either the primary or general elections in 1948 must reregister. Reregistration also is required of those who have changed their residence or their names, by marriage for example.

BANK INITIATES NEW TYPE OF SAVING SERVICE

A distinctively new and exclusive form of savings account service, available immediately at all branches of the Bank of America, was announced by L. M. Giannini, president of the bank.

The plan, he said, has the double design of assisting the national administration in checking the rise of inflation while furnishing a real incentive for people to get started on the road to financial substance, and strengthening the economy.

Known as the life insured savings account, it is a plan for savings under which the saver undertakes a program of making monthly deposits ranging from $2 to $20, with a specific total goal in mind. Life insurance to guarantee achievement of the goal is provided by the bank under the terms of the new plan.

Provided deposits have been made in accordance with the plan, should the saver die after the program is undertaken, but before the goal has been reached, the entire amount of the savings goal to which he had committed himself will be paid to a beneficiary of the saver's own choice.

Thousands who have wanted financial security but have never ventured on or completed a plan to achieve it, will find this a made-to-order plan, Giannini declared.

Accounts earn Bank of America full savings interest rate, and only where the customer drops a program before completion will he be charged the cost of the life insurance protection. This cost, it was stated, is substantially less than the interest earned by an account carried to completion.

Accounts may be opened by persons under 46 years of age. No physical examination for insurance is required, although the applicant is asked to sign a declaration as to the state of general health. Withdrawals may be made but that, it was pointed out, would cancel the insurance feature.

"Here is a practical plan," remarked Giannini, "which provides families with immediate protection both in cash savings and insurance, while contributing substantially to the nation's economic health."

NO ONE INJURED

Mrs. Gertrude Esterly, Grass Valley, was the driver of a car which was struck from the rear as she was traveling south on the Grass Valley Nevada City Highway. Driver of the second car was Lucretia Arant, Grass Valley. Neither driver was injured. The rear of the Easterly car was heavily damaged. Lucretia Arant was cited by CHP officers for operating a car with defective brakes and without a driver's license.

CHILDREN'S PET SHOW WILL AGAIN FEATURE NEVADA COUNTY FAIR

The children's pet show will again feature the Nevada County District Fair Aug. 24-27, according to Ralph W. Kuska, Nevada City, who will manage the special event.

The pet show will be held on Sunday at 1 p. m., at the fair grounds.

Kuska announced there will be 10 classes this year. They are (1) largest dog, (2) girls' handling class, (3) boys' handling class, (4) smallest dog, (5) dog with shortest legs, (6) dog with most tricks in five minutes, (7) dog with the crookedest tail, (8) dog with the most definite spots, (9) dog with the most wrinkled face, (9) dog with the longest tail.

The show is scheduled this year because of the popularity of it last year. "So much interest was shown last year by local children," Kuska said, "that a promise was made to have a bigger and better show this year—and—the best part of it is, the children who lost last year will have a chance to come back with a vengeance and try for a beautiful trophy and prizes galore."

Kuska announced there will be three judges from Sacramento.

A dog will be limited to entry in one class only, thus permitting only one prize to a dog. Except, Kuska pointed out, all entries can compete in the grand finale of three groups, best purebred, best non-purebred and best cared for.

The best non-purebred is expected to be a popular one, Kuska declared. It is strictly for the "mutts" and purebred dogs may not be entered.

Prizes for the 10 general classes are first, cup and blue ribbon; second, red ribbon, bag of dog food and 50 cents cash; third, white ribbon and 25 cents cash. Prizes for the grand finale are trophies and blue rosette ribbon for first places in the three sections.

Rules are:

1. Limited to children from 7 to 16 (except in purebred dog exhibition).
2. All children must handle entries and keep dog under control.
3. Any dog that has to be handled by an adult is disqualified.
4. No vicious dogs will be allowed in the ring.
6. Age limit for dogs, male or female, six months or older.
7. In exhibition of purebreds, owners must bring registration papers or pedigree.
8. Dogs need not be owned by children, but can be borrowed for the show. All prizes won are the property of child handling dog.

In addition, Kuska said, there will be an interesting lecture on care of dogs, demonstration of trained dogs, and exhibition of registered or pedigreed purebred dogs

HIT ON DEPOT HILL

The front end of a car operated by William Chandler, Grass Valley, was heavily damaged Sunday noon by a water truck engaged in construction work at Depot Hill Grade on the Downeville Highway. The sprinkler truck backed into the passenger car.

REMEMBER THOSE DAYS, MADAM?

THEM WAS THE GOOD OLD DAYS, or were they? In this advertisement displayed at the Centennial Exposition of California Journalism, Balboa Park, San Diego, the merchant is offering your choice of steaks at 24 cents per pound, Leg of Lamb, 21 cents, Lamb or Pork Chops at 22½ cents, and Bacon at 27½ cents a pound. Pretty Barbara Goodridge says that was the time to make out shopping lists, but she is too young to remember that a dollar was harder to earn in those days, and that the expenses of the farmers, butchers and merchants were far below what they are today.

TUMULLA FILES ANSWER AGAINST GREENAGLE

Paul J. Tumulla, local automobile dealer, Monday filed answer and cross-complaint in the Sutter county superior court, against Jack Greenagle, Yuba City, in which he demands an accounting of money received for him by Greenagle, in an amount exceeding one thousand dollars.

Tumulla alleges that Greenagle is in possession of some of his books and records which he refuses to return, and for that reason he is unable to ascertain the exact sum owed.

Tumulla also denies delivery of a check upon which Greenagle recently sued him, and asks the court to render judgment in his favor. He is represented by attorney Michel Lipman of Nevada City.

Vaudeville Headline Acts At County Fair

Vaudeville acts booked for the Nevada County District Fair on Aug. 24 to 27 run the full scale of entertainment requirements from amusing to amazing.

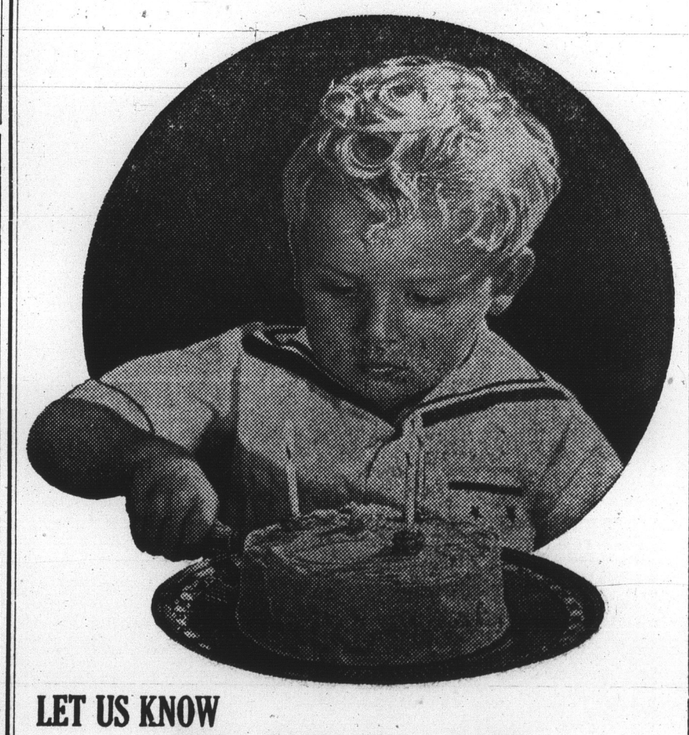

Most spectacular performance will be by Kayletta who combines beauty, skill and daring in a breat-taking performance on the high trapeze and rings on a steel tower far above her audience.

Top laugh getter of the show will be Marge and Eddie Medley who have played most of the top night clubs in the nation with their riotous performance. Much of the Medley comedy is fashioned along the W. C. Fields lines with pathos mingled with hilarious comedy. Eddie's "invention of the old fashioned phonograph" has become a classic of the comedy world.

Another hilarious performance will be the "South of the Border" songs and gags of the Two Mad Peons. The madcap Latins performance has been given a high rating by critics of comedy.

Combining comedy with acrobatics will be the Bounding Dons on the Trampoline which is commonly known as the animated bed springs. Feature of the act is the triple somersault, one of the most difficult feats on the contrivance.

ADMISSION DAY STAMPS TO HELP POLIO CAMPAIGN

The Tulare Cunty Chapter of the March of Dimes will capitalize on the new commemorative stamp being issued in honor of the 100th anniversary of California statehood.

First-day covers and cachets for the day of issue are being sold and served by the county polio group, and all proceeds will go to the county March of Dimes fund. Dr. James F. Dickson, local philatelist, has charge of the program. Other Lindsay men participitating in the sale and promotion of the first-day covers are Robert Walther and Paul Lencioni.

The California centennial stamp will be issued on Admission Day, Sept. 9, and covers will be serviced in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Sacramento. All orders should be mailed to the March of Dimes, Lindsay, and checks or money orders should be made out to March of Dimes, Tulare County. Orders must be received by Monday, Dr. Dickson said.

The special cachet will show a map of California, with the Great Seal of California and the Bear flag over it. Very few cachets in the past have had the state seal, because it may not be used commercially, Dr. Dickson said. The cachet will be in the state colors, gold and blue. Those for Los Angeles and San Francisco will differ by the addition of "Admission Day September 9, 1950.

The minimum cost of 15 cents will cover the cost of a cover with a single stamp. Twenty-five cents will cover the cost of a block of four stamps on the cover. No arrangements are being made to sell plate blocks. The costs listed are the minimum and contributions to the March of Dimes, greater than the minimum charges, are being sought and welcomed, Dr. Dickson said.

Collectors may obtain the First Day Cancellation using the special commemorative Slogan Cancellation being used in Sacramento July 15 to Dec. 15. Normally this will not be applied to the new stamp upon the first day of issue. To those requesting same, the March of Dimes will make one bundle of covers to receive that cancellation. Collectors can get four different covers instead of just one from First Day.

MINIMUM NEEDS OF PEARS ANNOUNCED

The state department of agriculture announced the establishment of minimum grade and minimum size regulations for fresh Hardy, Winter Nelis, Comice, Bosc and Anjou pears distributed within California during the 1950-1951 marketing season, and the approval of operating rules and regulations for the administration of the marketing order for fresh fall and winter pears grown in California for the 1950-1951 marketing season. The operating rules and regulations become effective Aug. 22.

The minimum grade requirement established for fresh fall and winter pears prepared for market for fresh consumption within the state during the 1950-1951 marketing season is U. S. No. 2 grade as set forth in official U. S. standards for summer and fall pears for pears of the Hardy variety.

For pears of the Anjou, Bosc, Comice and Nelis varieties, the minimum grade is also No. 2 as set forth in U. S. standards for winter pears.

Copies of the grade size and regulations together with copies of the operating rules and regulations for the 1950-1951 marketing season are being mailed to all growers and handlers of fresh fall and winter pears of record with the department.

The principal counties which produce fall and winter pears are: Monterey, San Benito, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Solano, El Dorado, Placer, Nevada, Sacramento, Contra Costa and Los Angeles.

CENTENNIAL STAMP ON SALE HERE SEPT. 10

California's new centennial stamp, special issue commemorating the admission of this state to the union a century ago, will be available in Nevada City the day following opening of the sale on Sept. 9, at the California state fair, Sacramento post office, and branch stations.

On the order of the postmaster general, the stamp will be sold at the branch post office located underneath the south end of the grandstand at the fairgrounds where the thousands of visitors may purchase any number they desire.

The stamp is now being printed at Washington and will be rushed to the west coast as soon as it is completed, in plenty of time for its sale Admission day.

Sale of the stamp in the capitol, where the fair will be held Aug. 31 through Sept. 10, is expected to break all records and post office officials predict a million will be disposed of in Sacramento alone. They base their estimate on the gold rush centennial stamp sale last year when more than half a million stamps were sold.

DRILLING CONTEST CANCELLED; BULLDOZER NUDGES ROCK AWAY

About 500 persons attended the combined homecoming and centennial celebration at Alleghany Saturday night and Sunday which marked the one hundredth anniversary of the discovery of gold in Kanaka creek, just below the townsite.

Founded in 1850, Alleghany has the distinction of being the only town in the Mother Lode which has derived its support throughout the years solely from the gold industry.

The week-end celebration began with a dance at the school gymnasium Saturday night where the Nevada City Nuggeteers demonstrated square and quadrille dances. Music was by the Night Owls.

A rock drilling contest scheduled Sunday was called off by Wilford Hart, celebration chairman, when a large granite boulder on which the drillers were to have tried their skill rolled into the creek below the town while being pushed into place for the event by a bulldozer.

Wayne Brooks, 13, Alleghany, won the greased pole climb; Mrs. Mildred Winstead of Grass Valley took top honors in the women's nail driving contest; and Walter Bruning, 13, Downeville won first prize in the watermellon eating contest.

A hulu-hulu dance which has been a part of the celebration since the first miners entered the area in 1850 with a group of Hawaiian laborers by whom Kanaka Creek was named, was put on by little Joy Matusovic.

SHERIFF CANDIDATE KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Thomas J. O'Dea, 38, familiar Grass Valley figure, was killed Tuesday at Stockton in the crash of a lumer truck and trailer and a passenger car, which also took the life of Fred P. Bitnhoff, 38, Sheridan.

O'Dea was a passenger in a coupe driven by Bitnhoff.

They were identified by papers on their person. Grass Valley police said that on Aug. 4, O'Dea registered the purchase of a gun and gave his address as the Marshall hotel in Sacramento.

Robinson and highway patrol officers said it appeared that Bitnhoff drove out of a side street onto a through route without stopping. The car was carried 125 feet from the crossing.

O'Dea was a candidate for Nevada county sheriff in 1946.

SUMMIT SKI LODGE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire destroyed the Sudski Ski Club lodge one mile east of Norden Monday and threatened two other ski lodges, Southern Pacific snow sheds and Pacific Gas and Electric company high voltage lines Monday.

Keith McDonald, fire control officer of the Tahoe National Forest, said cause of the fire has not been determined. He said no estimate had been made of the damage but added the lodge was a complete loss and that four acres of timber within sight of highway 40 near Donner summit were burned.

The fire was brought under control late Monday night by a 10-man P. G. & E. crew, Tahoe forest fire fighters and several volunteers. Fire fighting was directed by Max Williamson, Big Bend forest ranger.

Macdonald warned persons using the Tahoe forest that humidity is still low and that fire danger still exists despite cooler weather in the mountains.

vises operation and maintenance of the building.

According to the grand jury report cost of operating the building under a manager plan during the 1948-49 fiscal year was $3,411 compared to an operational cost of $7,254 for 1947-48 when the building was managed by a committee of legionaires.

Clark's heated accusation followed Rowe's questioning of the accuracy of the grand jury's information regarding the building under a manager system had been unsuccessful.

The board agreed to comply with the jury's request for setting up a bookkeeping system for the building and instructed County Auditor Ralph E. Deeble to prepare an adequate but simplified system for recording transactions in the administration of the building.

Supervisor Henry Loehr suggested the board also comply with the grand jury's recommendation to appoint a manager. The suggestion was tabled for discussion at an adjourned meeting Thursday.

The board also adopted a resolution ordering installation of stop signs on East Bennett street at the junction of Adams street and at the Deadman Flat Road controlling traffic passing from Adams street onto the road. Both locations are at the edge of Grass Valley.

In another action the board completed arrangements with officials of the Tahoe National Forest, the State Division of Forestry and the North San Juan, Camptonville and Vicinity Chamber of Commerce for the establishment of ground observation posts at Washington, Columbia Hill, Wolf, and North San Juan.

The stations were established in compliance by Burton Washburn, executive secretary of the state disaster council. The western defense command has set tomorrow as the target date for testing the aircraft warning posts throughout the state.

The board of supervisors authorized expenditures of $150 for preparation of large scale maps of the county to be used in conjunction with joint defense plans by state, county and city law enforcement agencies.

The maps will be prepared in conjunction with Nevada county's part in a large scale evacuation program which has been drawn up by state, county and city officials and would accommodate several thousand evacuees from metropolitan areas in the bay region in the event of a bombing or other emergency in that area.

Areas of water supply, strategic roads, camping sites and parking areas will be shown on the map which have been marked off by officials of the Nevada county unit of the California Highway Patrol, the county sheriff's office, Tahoe National Forest, State Division of Forestry and police departments of Nevada City and Grass Valley.

Copies of the map would be located at Grass Valley, Nevada City, California Highway Patrol office, sheriff's office, Truckee, CHP office at Sacramento and the Sacramento office of the Civilian Defense Council.

In another action the board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Coral D. Morton as county service officer. The board also read applications for the position from J. Tom Trauner of Nevada City and L. D. Crane of Grass Valley. Appointment of a successor was tabled.

The board will meet in adjourned session Thursday to set the tax rate for the 1950-51 fiscal year.

The county budget was adopted Monday.

Glenn Loney, who recently graduated from University of California in Berkeley, and won a scholorship while there, left Monday for the University of Wisconsin. Mr. and Mrs. David M. Loney, his parents, will accompany him.

SOUTH YUBA CANAL AS VITAL TO NEVADA COUNTY AS NILE RIVER IS TO EGYPT; WAS PIONEER PROJECT

The African mountain, Kili mandjaro, is called the father of the Nile and the creator of Egypt. The High Sierras could be likened to the lofty equatorial peak through the snows that forever feed an artificial Nile—the South Yuba canal—the creator of the wealth of Nevada county, first, through the great, hydlaulic mines of the nineteenth century, and today, through the vast network of canals and flumes that serve the Nevada Irrigation District.

This is the story, as well as we have been able to compile it, of the builders of the South Yuba canal. The canal has slaked the thirst and bathed the bodies of countless thousands, washed out gold, turned the wheels of industry, and nourished the vines and trees of the agriculturist.

Apparently the leading figures in the early days of the South Yuba Canal Company were the Whartenby brothers— Jim and Tom. Charles Marsh, Dr. William Knox, Daniel A. Rich, John S. Dunn and his brother Tom and Capt. George W. Kidd were other leading figures in the early days of the company.

Jim Whartenby was secretary and treasurer. Hailing from Philadelphia, he sailed around the Horn into San Francisco in 1849. He was small in size, dark brown hair and a full medium length beard. Quiet in speech and manner he had few friends and was cold and reserved. Clear-headed in business, keeper of his own counsel, and calculatingly careful with money, he became a wealthy man. A silversmith by trade, yet he made his gold from the water. Although he was not robust in health he lived to a ripe old age.

Tom was about the same size as his brother but didn't measure up to Jim in mental stature. The two were inseparable throughout the first decade of Nevada City's existence—a companionship that ended only in myster ious death, when Tom was lost overboard off the Jersey coast in 1860.

The two were a familiar sight in their comings and goings between the office of the South Yuba Water company on the Coyoteville spur of Sugar Loaf ridge, and the main business area of Nevada City.

Whartenby's most remembered phrase of the few that came from his close-lipped mouth was "gibben-gobben," a name he gave to most of the mysterious concoctions that originated in the kitchens of the ditch camps. Whartinby said he learned the name from Hugh C. Murray, a fellow passenger on board the ship that brought them around the Horn, and who was later to become chief justice of the California supreme court.

Kidd was general superintendent during construction days and occasionally president of the company. He hailed from Nashville, Tenn., and crossed the weary plains with his wife in 1849. Kidd was quite small in stature with thin sandy hair, clean shaven, and quick in mind and action. He purchased a $65,000 house in San Francisco in five minutes. And in anger his words blistered.

Kidd ran away from home when he was 13, and became a cabin boy on a Mississippi river steamer. The experience resulted in him often stating he would rather be a "captain of a steamboat than president of the United States.' In later years Kidd gratified that wish when he spent $100,000 on the construction of a steamboat named the "Nevada" and ran it in opposition to the California Steam Navigation Co. between San Francisco and Sacramento until it blew up one day on the "Hog's Back." Kidd made and lost several fortunes before he came to Nevada City. Once he went to bed in Texas with $8,000 worth of wheat threshed and ready to go to market. Mexican raiders burned it in the night and he awoke unable to buy breakfast.

His first venture in Nevada City was the selling of hay on the corner of Broad and Pine at eight pounds for a dollar. Kidd later became a banker in Nevada City and Stockton, and was remembered principally for his interest in interest, especially the two and three percent per month, and preferably compounded.

Charlie Marsh, a native of Canada, crossed the plains from Milwaukee in 1849. A surveyor by profession he served Nevada county in that capacity for a while. He was engineeer of the canal company and a major stockholder. He also owend the Nevada City Water Works, and shared in the promotion of the Central Pacific Railroad.

Large in stature, burdened with flesh, straight black hair and whiskers, he kept his upper lip clean-shaven, some said to show off his fine white natural teeth. Marsh remained a bachelor until he was middle age, when he married a widow. He was an omniverous reader and scholar. He was rarely profane but when occasion called for it he could qualify as a mule-skinner.

Dr. Knox was a featherweight from St. Louis. The manner of his coming was never known. He was not robust, a blond with sandy hair, and clean shaven. He was principally a stockholder and had little to do with operation of the company beyond an occasional inspection.

The Dunns came west from Buffalo, N. Y., how and when unknown. John lived for many years in a Selby Flat mansion known as the S. P. ranch. He was another featherweight stooped, dark haired and straggley bearded, with sallow complexion. His wife and children were here with him. Like Dr. Knox he confined his activities to an occasional inspection tour.

Tom Dunn was larger than his brother and interlaced his speech with unprintable words. Tom had little to do with the company but spent many years traveling between the states and California—and afoot according to report.

Rich came from Ohio to California by way of the Isthmus of Panama. With no connections on the Pacific side, Rich and others who had traveled thus far, set in a store of provisions to wait for a ship that might come around thee Horn and put in at Panama. He finally reached San Francisco on board the whaling bark, "Anna" on June 5, 1850, three months to the day he left home. The Anna never left port. She joined Bret Harte's "Ships of 49" and today she is buried beneatn Montgomery street where she was scuttled with many another.

Rich was average height, witn straight black hair and partially shaven beard. A widower in his early manhood with four children he brought two of them with him to the golden state.

He made many of the surveys of the water route and chiseled the legal claim of the water rights into rock. The information gained by Rich prompted the men to form the company and proceed with construction. This was the start of the South Yuba Canal Company, which has been, and will be through its successors, of untold benefit to this part of California as long as grass grows and water flows.

Rich located the water claims of the storage water in Devil's Peak lakes and Meadow lake, and superintended the construction of the Fordyce or Black Rock dam. The first dam was built in 1857 and the engineering was such that traces of it stands today.

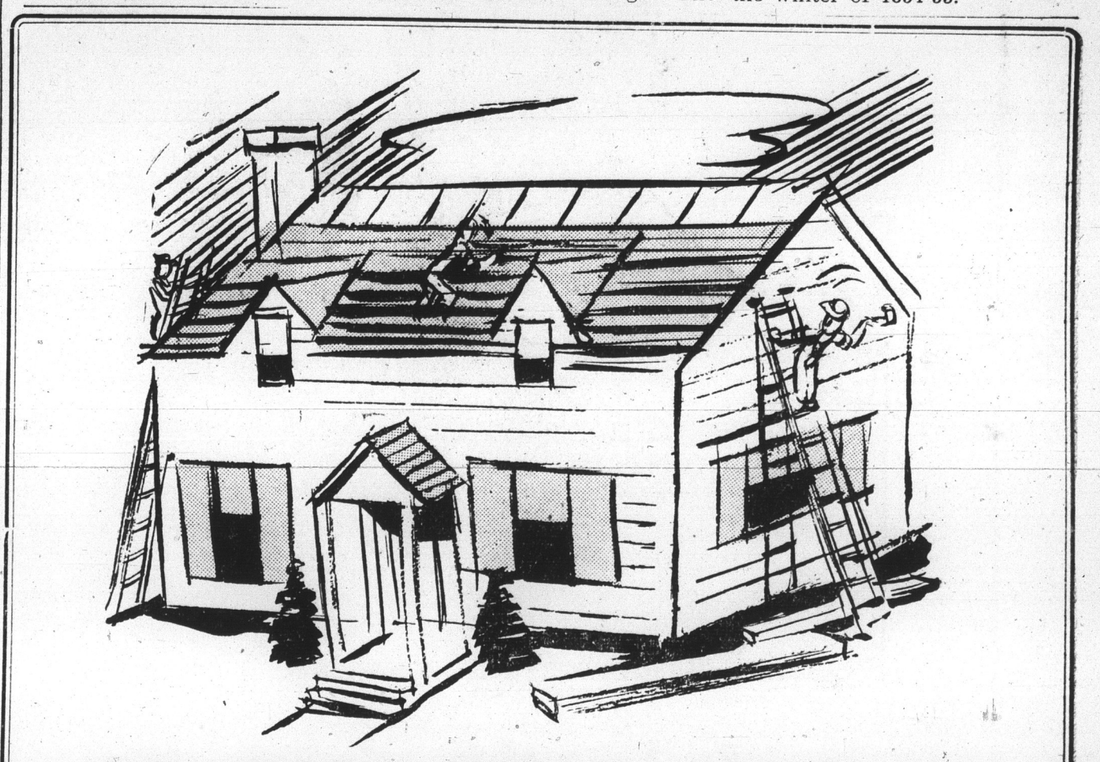

Capt. Kidd conceived the idea of bringing the waters of Donner lake into the system—an indication of the lack of knowledge of the topography in that day. Rich's exploration demonstated the error of the plan.

In 1850 Whartenby, Marsh and Dunn, and possibly others, built a ditch from Rock creek to Sugar Loaf. At the same time Kidd and Knox built a ditch from Deer Creek to Gold Flat. In 1853 Rich and others built a ditch from Rock Creek to Sugar Loaf a little above the Whartenby ditch and also began the Snow Mountain ditch at Nevada City end to supply the rich and extensive mines on the slopes below Sugar Loaf, appropriating water supplies available as they were reached. The ditch was intended to extend to Deer creek but finally terminated at Cold Spring canyon.

The water rights were held in the order of the construction of the ditches and limited to their capacities. Sometimes even in wet weather there was not sufficient water to supply all ditches and friction resulted as water meant money. Despite occasional fights no one was killed and eventually the companies consolidated into the South Yuba Canal Company.

Following consolidation and in the summer of 1854 a new ditch new ditch 2½ feet wide and 2 feet deep, tapped Deer Creek at the forks.

The building of the South Yuba Canal was decided upon during the winter of 1854-55.

YOU SHOULD REMODEL, REPAIR OR RENOVIZE YOUR HOUSE

. . . . because your house will wear out. You can ignore its shabbiness and inconvenience for a while, but eventually it must be repaired. Without paint and minor repairs the depreciation on the average house is four percent a year . . . Neglect will rob your house of its original value.

There's no need to enter another winter in an unsatisfactory house. Now you can have your house made over to fit your family's needs.

Have your work done now before cold weather really sets in.

You will be surprised at the moderate cost, and pleased with the kind of service we are able to give you.

WATER USERS AT FRIDAY MEETING BACK DIRECTORS

More than 200 water users and ranchers of western Nevada county Friday night approved by acclaim a plan to operate the Nevada Irrigation District by the directors and to throw out the present system of a salaried engineer-manager.

No formal vote was taken but farmers in the community hall here sanctioned by applause the plan submitted by Max Arnold, chairman of the NID directorate who faces a recall election instigated by the recently organized Nevada Irrigation District Land Owners Association.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Nevada Irrigation District Water Users Association, an organization which long has criticized what it terms "a short sighted and unbusinesslike policy by both NID directors and management."

Arnold's plan includes the dismissal of Forrest Varney, NID manager, and weekly meetings of the directors to consult with an office manager to be appointed by the board and a superintendent who would be in charge of all physical operations.

The only stormy note in the meeting followed the appearance of C. O. Armstrong, president of the Nevada County Farm Bureau Federation and recall candidate against Herbert Nile, NID director. Armstrong accused the water users association of being responsible for the current wave of unrest in the district. He was greeted with a brief flurry of protests.

Four of the five directors of the NID were present at the meeting. Harold Gleason, Arnold and Nile, who voted three weeks ago to fire Varney, all spoke in favor of the changed operational plan. G. O. Griffith, Placer County director who voted against the Varney ouster, urged harmony.

4-H CLUBS TO COMPETE IN CALIFORNIA FAIR

Four-H clubs from 21 counties of the state will have demonstration team competing every ten minutes from 10:30 a. m. Sept. 6, until 5 p. m. Sept. 10, the five days of the California state fair in Sacramento, Aug. 31 through Sept, 10.

Fifty-nine teams from fifty clubs of the counties will be competing for the top honors in the demonstrations. Each team will demonstrate a particular phase of training which members receive in the state-wide program. They will demonstrate everything from new notions in egg salads and care of the hair ti tattooing a calf's ear and common control of cattle grubs.

Seven places will be awarded in home economics and seven in agriculture demonstrations.

Nevada county clubs and their demonstrations are:

Woodchuckers—Care of the hair. Tattooing a calf's ear.

Union Hill and Kentucky Flat —Using cottage cheese in a summer salad.

Chicago Park Hornets—Grading eggs.

MINORITY DIRECTORS ANSWER TRIO REMARKS

The recent statement signed by Directors Arnold, Nile and Gleason, outlining their reasons for demanding the resignation of Manager Varney, is definite proof of their incompetence. They have failed to tell the whole story and divulge the true facts, and we feel it is our duty to present the facts and tell the story in its entirely so that you the people may be the judge:

The potential demand for more water at the end of the Camp Far West ditch had reached a point where all the Directors felt that an enlargement program should be undertaken, so that last year it was agreed that the sum of $10,000 be set up each year in the "CONTINGENT" budget until the work was completed. Last year $6,800 was spent on the upper two miles of the ditch, and this year, because the $10,000 agreed upon was not spent, $14,-100 was set up in the "contingent" budget.

Two one-half yard used power shovels were purchased, with the knowledge of the entire board, and work started in January of this year. The enlargement of this twelve and one-half mile ditch was a tough job, necessitating almost one hundred percent blasting ahead af the shovels. This led to a discussion at several times as to how far the board should go towards the completion of the entire job.

Considering that the equipment was on the job and that no new revenue would be earned until this work was completed, it was agreed by the entire board that the work should be pushed to completion this year, using money set up in the "Contingent" budget for other projects in the Placer Division, as long as the money lasted. In other words, this project was never set up in the REGULAR budget. How, then can Mr. Varney be accused of exceeding the budget?

A rented shovel was added to the job and work was completed just one day before the opening of the irrigation season. Additional revenue has already resulted from this work and by next year farmers in the area, knowing that water will be available, can plan accordingly.

The total cost of this work was $40,000 which cost covers two year's work. This year's cost is $34,000. If this project had been carried through as originally planned the cost would have been approximately the same, but revenue could not be taken in until the end of four years. As it now stands twelve and one half miles of difficult and inaccessible ditch has been enlarged in two years and additional returns from the sale if water are already now coming in.

Furthermore, a conservative estimate places the new land which may be irrigated by this project at 3,000 acres. This acreage will need approximately 1500 inches of water of which some 250 inches will be delivered in 1951. The additional revenue from 250 inches of water is $7,250, which is, to say the least, a good annual return on a $40,000 investment.

It seems to us that the money was well spent and that the Manager should be commended rather than condemned. At no time did he attempt to hide anything from the board. All of us knew a very difficult job was being done under very trying conditions. It should be understood that water service to the farmers was continued. Every night water was turned into the ditch and turned out before work in the morning. It should be further understood that the total spent in the Placer Division did not exceed the amount in the "Contingent" budget for Placer county projects.

We want to explain what is meant by our use of the term "contingent" budget. The regular annual budget cannot exceed total cash received during the previous year. Cash received in excess of the Regular budget may be placed in the "Contingent" budget. It has always been customary for the Manager to use his best judgement in setting up priorities on these items in the "Contingent" budget. In this case, with the knowledge of the entire board, money was used that was set up for other projects in the Placer Division to do this job.

We wish to reiterate that Directors Arnold, Nile and Gleason have distorted the facts concerning the Camp Far West Project, and have failed to assume their share of responsibility for the decisions of the board of directors. Furthermore, these three directors, never to our knowledge, visited the Camp Far West Project, whereas, both of the undersigned did.

750 ACRES OF BRUSH LAND ARE BURNED

More than 750 acres of brush and grass land in western Nevada county were burned over in seven fires which started Saturday and Sunday.

Largest of the blazes which kept seven state division of forestry suppression crews busy Saturday was a fire believed to have been of incendiary origin which burned 400 acres of brush and 200 acres of grass near Camp Beale, one and one-half miles from the Black Ranch.

A fire about 10:30 a. m. Saturday burned 120 acres of brush off the McCourtney road and another blaze which started about the same time in the general area burned 21 acres of brush and grass. Both were believed to have been incendiary fires.

Other blazes included a small trash fire at 2:30 p. m. Saturday near the Millscraft mill on the Marysville highway about one mile from Grass Valley, a fire which destroyed a small barn and burned about three quarters of an acre of slash near the Blue Tent school; a small grass fire about 7 p. m. near Watt park; and a blaze about 2:30 p. m. Sunday which burned 15 acres of brush near Lake Vera.

The Lake Vera fire also was described as incendiary in origin.

Two suppression crews from Nevada City, two from Higgins Corner, one from Columbia Hill, one from Alta, and one from Dobbins, were called to suppress the fires.

The Shady creek crew which was sent to help the fighters in Calaveras County last week returned to their station Monday night.

PART OF YUBA RIVER POSTED FOR POLLUTION

Dr. Saul Ruby, Placer county health officer, has ordered the Placer county portions of the Yuba River posted for pollution, as a result of a series of water tests.

Drinking the water or swimming in the river is prohibited. James Wheat, sanitarian, said the contamination resulted from sewage running into the river. He said steps will be taken to clear up the situation.

STREET DANCE WILL NOT BE HELD TOMORROW

Because of the Nevada County Fair, being held this weekend, the Saturday night entertainment and street dance will not be held here, according to Frank Stewart, chairman of the program.

Stewart said a program had been arranged, but will be postponed until the following week.

Col. I Promoat Ralerodes will appear at the show the evening of Sept. 2 and will sell shares of stock for the newly organized Pioneer Park Narrow Gauge railway. Col. Ralerodes will be in complete uniform, with top hat, swallow tail coat, moustache, and that sly way with the gals.

CONTROLLED FIRE

Standing by was a state division of forestry range improvement crew equipped with fire trucks and fire fighting tools. The burn is part of a range improvement program being carried out on California's range lands.

LET'S GO—TO THE FAIR

The eighth annual Nevada County Fair is playing a four-day stand at the fairgrounds, formerly Watt Park, in Grass Valley.

The officers of the 17th District Agricultural association, which conducts the fair, have the past week been busier than the proverbial one-armed paper hanger with the hives. They have done an excellent job and the fair bids to be the finest and most successful ever produced....

Nevada county, although not primarily an agricultural county will display an unexpected array of horticultural and agricultural products.

Nevada county's large and widely known livestock industry will come in for its share ofprize-winningexhibits.

And, of course, we cannot overlook the product that put Nevada county on the map, its gold.

Let's go—to the fair.

STREET DANCE DRAWS EXCELLENT AUDIENCE

More than 400 persons Saturday night attended the first of a series of street dances and entertainment programs sponsored by Nevada City merchants.

The program held in conjunction with the dance included vocal solos by William Tobiassen, Diana Rankin and Miss Astrida Varpins, an accordion solo by Martin Dalpez and piano selections by Bennie Bennefield and Mrs. Dorothy Kitts. Frank Stewart was in charge of entertainment.

The ladies auxiliary of the Nevada City fire department took in $43.19 from the sale of 16 cakes at the affair. The proceeds will be turned over to the Pioneer Park playground.

Music for the dance which was held on North Pine street in front of the Elks building was by Kent Walker and his orchestra.

Purpose of the combined dance and entertainment programs is to provide amusement for Nevada Cityans and to stimulate business.

ATHLETICS WILL PLAY 3 EXHIBITION GAMES

The Nevada City Athletics will play three exhibition games before hanging up spikes for the winter, according to Steve Pelayo, manager.

Tomorrow night the team will travel to Auburn for a practice game with the Auburn Cubs. The two teams tied for third place in the second half race of the Placer-Nevada baseball league.
